How SYP's Manifesto works

[2] Background of dotted paper. Blue number one in top right. Text reads: 'How did we get here. Last year, SYP's Members completed analysis of existing research and held an initial consultation on issues that Scotland's young people care about. This list of issues was then given to MSYPs to review before drafting policies. Our Conveners Group, which is SYP's main policy and campaigning steering group, then finalised the policies to go out to consultation.' Blue circles and line below.

[3] Background of dotted paper. Blue number two in top right. Text reads: 'Your views. Now, this is where young people from across Scotland aged 12 to 25 come in. SYP wants to hear from as people as possible about important issues covering five different themes - education, services, sustainability, social justice, rights.' Blue speech bubbles below. Blue circles and line below.

[4] Background of dotted paper. Blue number three in top right. Text reads: 'What happens next. Once this consultation closes, SYP staff will analyse all of the data you have provided us with by sharing your views. From there, MSYPs will work alongside the team to create a youth-led manifesto. Then we will publish the manifesto later this year and work with decision makers to influence the next election.' Blue notebooks below. Blue circles and line below.
